FRONT STREET.

To the Judge of Probate of Penobscot County, Maine.

James M. Blanchard, the undersigned, respectfully represents that on the 6th day of December, A.D. 1876, Alvin B. Clark, late of Corinth, now deceased, made a sealed instrument in writing in due form of law, and of the value of $100 in said Exeter, and said County, this description, to wit: A part of lot No. 3 in the fifth range of lots in said Exeter, containing seven and 38-100 acres more or less, with the buildings on the same. Also a part of lot numbered one in the third range of lots in said Exeter, and containing two acres and 100 of an acre, and both of said parcels being now occupied by Carter Blanchard, and being the same premises which were conveyed by me to said Alvin B. Clark, by my deed of warranty, dated May 1, 1865, and recorded in the Penobscot Registry of Deeds, Vol. 326, page 60, provided the undersigned should pay said Clark the sum of two dollars and all other demands then and there existing against said conveyance to be made by thirty days after demand, on said payments being made. Now the undersigned avers that he has performed all things required to perform the conditions required of him by the terms of said contract, and that said Clark has been prevented by death from making a deed of conveyance. Wherefore he prays that the said Alvin Sherman Nash Bragg, Esq., the Administrator of said Clark's estate, to make such conveyance.

Whereas Abner Strout, then of Glenburn, by his promissory note, dated the 19th day of October, A. D. 1867, promised in the Penobscot Registry of Deeds, Vol. 326, page 146, conveyed to Betsey McLeary, then of said Glenburn, the following described real estate, to wit: Situated in said Glenburn, being the late homestead of Eugene O'Neil, late of said Glenburn, deceased, containing forty-nine acres, one hundred and thirty-five rods, more or less, and the same described in a deed of Hollis Bowerman to Eugene O'Neil, dated May 20th, A. REPUBLICAN CAUCUSES.

The Republican voters of the City of Bangor are requested to meet in Caucus at CITY HALL, on FRIDAY EVENING, March 9, 1877, at 7½ o'clock to nominate candidates for Mayor.

Also on SATURDAY EVENING, March 10, 1877, at 7½ o'clock, at the usual places of ward caucuses in the several wards, to nominate candidates for Aldermen, Common Council and ward officers, to be voted for at the next municipal election, and to transact any other business that may properly come before such meetings.

Per order of the Republican City Committee.

JAMES WOODBURY, Chairman.

March 5, 1877.

THE MAYORALTY CAUCUS TO-NIGHT

The Republicans of Bangor are called to assemble in City Hall at 7½ o'clock this evening for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Mayor to be supported at the annual election next Monday. Our present able and esteemed Mayor, Hon. W. B. Hayford, having declined to accept a second election, another choice must be made and it is desirable that there should be a large attendance of our citizens to make a selection which will command the general approbation. The other cities in Maine which have held their spring elections have set us an excellent example of Republican earnestness, and the desperate character of the recent National campaign as well as the responsibilities of the future, should impress upon us the importance of maintaining the Republican prestige and reliability of our city and State. A good caucus affords the best assurance of victory, and we hope there will be a large attendance this evening.

WHAT THE "NEW SOUTHERN POLICY" MEANS.

There are so many specious phrases afloat just now about "pacification," the "wiping out of the color line," the "restoration of harmony," the "co-operation of both parties in erecting stable governments in the South," etc., etc., that it is well to look right square at the facts and see just what the "new Southern policy" means. And first it will be noticed that every proposition put forth on this subject on behalf of the new President involves unconditional Republican surrender to Democratic claims. The high-toned White Leaguers and Rifle Club statesmen will deign to consider no proposals which do not concede to them at the outset the unquestioning political control of the State Governments. The mutual part of the business is to be conducted on the principle of the lying down of the lion and the lamb together, the condition being that in every instance the lamb shall be inside of the lion. It will also be noticed that all the references to proposed "arrangements" in South Carolina and Louisiana, both by the President and his representatives and by the Democratic "parties of the second part," proceed entirely without regard to the question as to which party has the legal and constitutional right to the control of the State Governments, or to the fact as to which party has a majority of voters in the States. The "policy," plainly stated is for the Administration to assume the surrender of the Republican State Governments of South Carolina and Louisiana to the Democrats, and in consideration therefor the Democrats are to promise to reconcile and protect the rights of all citizens without regard to race or color."

The essential fatuity and invalidity of such a bargain are hardly more obvious than its absurdity, and the entire thing of such a scheme of "policy" only affords another illustration of how men with good intentions will deceive and involve themselves in attempting to make circumstances bend to theories instead of adjusting theories to facts. This "policy" proposes to promote law and order by starting out with a contemplated violation of the Constitution of the United States and the laws of the States, and the basis of the proposition is an arrangement between the Federal Government and certain Southern Democratic politicians to take such action as will enable them to oust the legally chosen State Governments and to assume control thereof without regard to law. It is then proposed that after the rights of the majority of the people of those States have been thus taken from them, the minority shall give pledges to maintain the very rights which they have trampled under foot. No one who will look at the case candidly can fail to see the incongruity of the proposition.

Why not state the facts just as they are. Everybody knows that the troubles in the States mentioned are caused by the determination of the ex-Confederate white population to have political control. They claim it on the ground that they represent the intelligence, the wealth and the business interests of the States. They do not pretend—or if any of them do, nobody else believes that they represent the majority of citizens entitled to the ballot, but they declare that it would be better for them to rule than to have the majority govern. They believe that the negro ought not to be allowed to vote, and justify themselves in resorting to any method to prevent him. That statement of fact cannot be disputed, and under these circumstances the new "policy" simply proposes to placate the white minority by establishing them in power over over the majority, and in accomplishing this result such trifling considerations as the legal title to government are to be disposed of by setting aside the rights of the majority "for the public good."

Now the Constitution of the United States provides that "the right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States, or by any State, on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude." That provision was not framed to please the disloyal whites of South Carolina and Louisiana and no doubt is unsatisfactory to them to-day; but it is the fundamental law of the Government of this Nation and cannot be set aside to please the prejudices of caste of to facilitate the "new policies" of administrations. The colored citizens of the States mentioned had the right to vote at the last election, and in spite of massacres and intimidation many of them did vote. Their party has a large and undoubted numerical majority in both the States, and the Constitution of the United States commands the recognition, and when necessary the protection of the State Governments duly elected according to the laws of the States. To countenance or aid a minority of whatever class to usurp the powers of the legally elected officers, is to countenance and aid revolution and to nullify the Constitution."

Suppose the Democratic minority installed in power, what then? They are to be required to "give assurance that they will maintain the rights of all citizens without regard to color or condition." But it was their right of these citizens to elect State Governments and that right has been set aside. If they are permitted to exercise their rights in future they will again elect Republican State Governments, and to maintain minority control their rights must again be taken from them. The proposition is a paradox and will not stand the test of common sense.

But, some one says, the "new policy" proposes to wipe out the color-line." Yes, and how is it to be wiped out? You cannot wipe out the fact of a majority, and the wiping out under this policy is to be the wiping out of the political rights of the majority. The theory is simply this: Put the Democratic minority in power, withdraw from the loyal Republicans of the States all Federal protection, convince them that such protection will never be accorded to them under any circumstances in the future and the color-line will be wiped out—how? By the abject submission of a persecuted and terrified people to a usurpation sustained by powerful armed organizations, against which there would be no hope of appeal to the National authority. Negro suffrage would be wiped out because the negroes would be under the heels of their old masters, with the Federal Government looking on with approval at the disappearance of the color-line. That is the logical sequence of the "new Southern policy," from which there is no escape but in the possibility that a persecuted race might at last rise in the might of desperation against their oppressors and wipe out the color-line with other blood than their own.

The people of the North cannot claim to be free and the loyalists of the South know too well the terrible import of the announced purpose of the President to "withdraw all the Federal troops from the South." If that purpose shall be carried out and the National Government shall abandon the emancipated race and the white loyalists of the South to the unchecked brutality of those who have made the South a scene of horrors, if this shall be done at the instance of such bloodstained conspirators as Gordon and Lamar, we do not envy those who shall be accountable for the frightful wrong.

"CONCILIATION."

[Special to Boston Globe.]

NEW ORLEANS, March 7. At 3 p. m. to-day a white citizen was murdered in Ward Webster in the Court House yard at Washington, and shot him to death. Mr. Webster had been on several years tax collector, and was a brother of State Senator Webber, who was recently returned to a seat in the Packard Senate.

The Tribune says of Tuesday's Senate debate: "The signs of Republican difficulties at Washington increase rather than lessen. Mr Blaine's speech in the Senate yesterday was a bold challenge to any man who had accepted as lawful the decision of the Electoral vote of Louisiana for President Hayes to deny that Governor Packard's title was equally good. He announced in advance all bargains which contemplated the recognition of the Nicholls Government, and declared his belief that none of them had been countenanced by the President. Mr. Blaine showed as much ability in this discussion as any man engaged in the conduct of Mr. Lamar's case. His speech pushes him to the front in the Senate, and the sharp thrusts he exchanged with Senator Morton serve to foreshadow a contest for leadership in which it is easy to predict who will come to the front."

Mr Blaine in Lamar's case simply advocated the usage of the Senate and defended the same for Kellogg. When Lamar's election is inquired into the horrors of the "Mississippi plan" will be fully exposed, and that mouth-tongued organizer of outrage should be thrust out of the seat which has been obtained through monstrous perjury.

The talk about the appointment of Benjamin H. Bristow to succeed David Davis on the U. S. Supreme Bench, sounds like a curious commentary upon President Hayes' declaration that appointments should be governed solely by qualification and were not influenced by political considerations. No one will claim that Mr. Bristow would ever have been mentioned for such a place except for the political prominence temporarily given him last year. He was no more than an ordinary Kentucky lawyer until Gen. Grant put him in office, and his connection with that famous "Kentucky whip claim" is the most prominent feature in his professional career of which the general public have had knowledge. There are hundreds of eminent jurists in the country from whom selection could properly be made and no one will pretend that any other than political considerations have suggested the appointment of Mr. Bristow as a Justice of the United States Supreme Court. Such an appointment would be a most unfit one and the Senate should refuse to confirm it if made.

The Rifle Democratic organ over the way is perfectly amazed at the idea of a political journal assuming to express any opinions obnitary to the policy of the President elected by its party. If Mr. Tilden had been inaugurated and had proposed to abolish the Supreme Court, cut off the heads of Governors Chamberlain and Packard, sprinkle the capital of the National banks, and set all New England from the Union, the little organ would have gleefully published his fulminations with big display lines and would have ransacked ancient history to find parallels for his statesmanship. Of course it cannot understand our position, which is that we supported Hayes and Wheeler as the candidates and representatives of the Republican Party, and having no favors to ask of the Administration, we freely express our opinion of all attempts to repudiate the moral obligations of the President to the party which elected him to represent its principles.

Even the N. Y. Herald thought the nomination of Carl Schurz would be a little steep. In anticipation it said:

"Mr. Schurz's vacillating and erratic course during the last five years has brought upon him the hostility of both political parties. The Democratic Senators would vote against his confirmation as well as a majority of the Republicans. We cannot see any possibility of this getting through if his name is sent in, and it would be bad strategy for the President to make a fight on a man who has no political standing in either party."

"With nearly the whole State Administration from the Governor down vigorously lobbying in Washington for Cabinet places, the Boston Advertiser's special coolly remarks that "Massachusetts has not an applicant for any Cabinet office." The same writer says that Gen. Devens was selected because "it occurred to Mr. Wheeler that Devens would be admirably fitted for the War Office." He was accordingly nominated for Attorney-General.

A leading Tennessee Democrat telegraphed to Mr. Key: "Accept. We are willing to risk you anywhere." The Tennessee Democrats evidently think it a big thing to have one of their party who can be "trusted" put in charge of the Post-Office Department. Welthink so too.

Senator "Colleague" Wallace was quite effectually sat down upon Wednesday by Senator Hamlin, as follows:

Mr. Grover was escorted to the desk by Mr. Wallace, and as the Vice President was to administer the oath Mr. Hamlin said the Senator from Oregon (Mitchell) was not in his seat, and he therefore objected to the oath being administered to Mr. Grover, as he understood that the Senator has some papers bearing on the case.

Mr. Wallace said as a Senator of the United States he presented the Senator-elect from Oregon, and hoped he would be sworn in.

Mr. Hamlin said as a Senator of the United States he objected, to his being sworn, and therefore the oath was not administered.

MR. BLAINE'S GREAT SPEECH.

AT THE FRONT AGAIN AS THE CHAMPION OF REPUBLICAN PRINCIPLES.

The Democratic and Independent press were taken aback by the suddenness and impetuosity of Senator Blaine's reappearance on Tuesday, as the foremost champion of Republican principles, and it is interesting to read their reports of the event. We copy from the despatches of several which show the masterly character of the effort in spite of their desire to illog it him as much as possible. It must have been a masterly performance to extort from bitter enemies such reluctant admissions of his power as are contained in the following reports.

[For Boston Post.]

Mr. Lamar was admitted to his seat without one opposition vote—that of Mr. Wadleigh of New Hampshire who thought that consistency with his vote to exclude Pinchback last year required him to vote against letting in the Mississippi Senator also. During this discussion a Senator suggested that Kellogg's case ought to be disposed of first, and Mr. Blaine, in an imperious manner, replied that he was ready to move Kellogg's admission, at the same time fluttering the written resolution in his hand. After getting this before the Senate, he proceeded to deliver a remarkable speech which was a direct defiance to the Democratic party and plainly declared that Packard be sustained and asserted that the honor of the party required it. Blaine spoke emphatically, and with all the power and vigor of an old Senatorial leader. His voice filled the chamber splendidly, and he never appeared to better advantage. The most interesting portion his speech was when he demanded to know who had made the agreement that Nicholls should be recognized, at the same time pardoned, and could secure the election of Senator Sherman who was very busy organizing his brilliant forces. I deny it," cried Blaine, clenching his fist, "and I shall find myself grievously disappointed if my denial is not broadly based on the policy of the Administration." Thus, and what he saw afterward, everybody saw as a menace it was a sharp declaration of Pro-Great Hayes to beware of what he was doing. The speech caused a sensation in the chamber. Every body on the Republican side seemed to rise, and after a moment's pause some Democratic Senator moved an adjournment, which was carried without a word of opposition. The speech was a bold assertion of Blaine's power in the chamber, but it remains to be seen whether his friends will do all the results of his success.

[For Boston Post.]

Blaine, without waiting for Conkling to get over his sulks, and throwing aside the more timid by he assumed last session, and taking out his of pure, impetuous and impudent, seized the opportunity at once to strike. He saw the split that would follow any indication of his intention to defy Hayes, and notified the Senate that he proposed to lead there as in the House. "I do not pretend to speak for the Administration," he said, "but I do say most positively that if the Administration recognizes the Nicholls government in Louisiana it will be at the peril of President Hayes and you, sir (pointing to Vice-President Wheeler), hold your high offices by both usurpation." The unexpectedness, the impudence and vigor of his attack fairly took away the breath of old Senators accustomed to prolixity and dryness, and brought every one to instant and earnest attention. When, literally calling Hoar to preside, he left the chair Conkling was startled from his customary Supercilious dignity into a moment, but soon turned his back on Blaine and sat an attentive listener as Blaine went on in the effort again that has made us the Legislature which elected Kellogg was counted in by the same Returning Board which elected Louisiana for Hayes and Wheeler, and inasmuch as the constitutionality of the acts of that Returning Board had been affirmed by the Electoral Commission Hayes could not repudiate its count of the State vote without repudiating his own title to office, and that of Wheeler. Blaine got off his second affirmation of Bold usurpation, sir!" with even more emphasis than at first, and again waved his hand at the Vice-President's desk. When at Blaine, its tone grant banner like in Allen, and the galleries roared.

[Special to Boston Herald.]

In Republican and Republican circles was surprised by Blaine's defending the resolution. They have been amazement at his speech in support of it. Its boldness and the plain directness with which he declared that Hayes's self-respect must compel him to stand by the men who made him President, the Louisiana Returning Board, Gov. Packard and the Electoral Commission, took away the breath of the Rip Van Winkle Senators. Astonishment was depicted on every Senatorial face, and the occupants of the galleries hung expectant on every word he uttered. His clear ringing voice, his fine presence and his dramatic manner were all in keeping with the style of his speech. It was one of the masterly efforts of demagogism at which Blaine excels. And the fate of Morton clouded as he listened, because he saw that his great rival had stolen a march upon him, and had found a rallying cry which was sure to be received by the Radical Republican masses of the North.

The direct reference to John Sherman, when he demanded to know why there was any Senator who would rise in his place and father the rumors about pledges having been given in advance by the Administration in regard to Louisiana was a central shot. It was so pointed, and the manner of the speaker was so indicative of what he meant and to whom he referred, that another ripple of astonishment ran through the Senatorial body. When he concluded and took his seat, there was an oppressive silence for several seconds, which was broken by Bayard moving that the Senate adjourn, which motion was put and carried almost before either the Republican or Democratic sides had recovered from the daze into which Blaine's speech had thrown them.

It was plain that Blaine had touched the right chord in the Republican heart, and that the platitudes of the inaugural of yesterday had not met with a generous, heartfelt response. The man who had been the feature of yesterday's pageant was no longer the idol of Northern Republicans. But Blaine, who had been acclaimed at Cincinnati for this figurehead, was now the recognized leader, the trusted champion of the party as well as of the Senate.

The Edgers are made of Iron and Steel.

The Herald Crying 'Wolf'

NEW YORK March 8 In relation to Cabinet appointments the Herald says the President's line of firmness and independence made an excellent impression If he continues his attitude of quiet firmness between now and inauguration day he will find the bellicose party chiefs submissive enough before the end of the month"

A Republican President's Privy Council A Johnson Man and Two anti-Republicans of 1872.

WASHINGTON special says that there was a conference at the White House last night at which Evarts Matthews Schurz and other friends of the President were present The extraordinary session of the Senate in directing the confirmation of the new Cabinet was variously discussed The President expressed great astonishment, he had not only invited animosity approval, but thought it would meet the approval of the greater portion of the Senate

He will Defy the Senate and Withdraw all Protection from the Southern States'

He would not agree to have nominations withdrawn, but would persist in its consideration by the Senate and would expect it to confirm them when they should be presented again If the new Cabinet was not confirmed this week he should proceed to co-operation with the Cabinet as it now exists for the whole term of the present Administration

The Times and Tribune

The Times says It requires some straining of language to call the unprecedented action of the Senate in referring the Cabinet nominations to the appropriate committee until it shall report upon them to the Senate, but all the Democratic papers in the city, with the exception of the Tribune, endorse this action

Three Lovely Supporters

If Morgan Wallace and Hill declare their intention to support Hayes' policy the conservative members

Even should Hayes's name be withheld from the list, a willingness to that effect would be appreciated

The Senate Committees

WASHINGTON March 8 The Senate Republican caucus agreed to give the minority an increased representation on all the important committees so that instead of three, the Democrats will have four Chairmanships on each important committee The Democrats in the Senate will have the nominating of four members of the Appropriations and Foreign Relations committees They will probably have only two out of the seven of the Judiciary Committee The Republicans have agreed to support Senator Davis of Illinois by assigning him to the Judiciary Committee in Committee on Revision of the Laws No election of the committees by the Senate will be possible before to-morrow

The Republican members of the new House Committee will be Morrill of Vermont Chairman Ferry of Michigan Jones of Nevada Allison of Iowa and Dawes of Massachusetts

An Appointment

The President to-day made the first appointment that of Mr Stone to be U S Attorney for South Carolina

The Military Secretary

Col H C Corbin of the 25th Infantry will be detailed for duty at the White House acting in similar relation to the President as Gen Babcock

Among visitors to-day were multitudes of ladies many of whom paid their respects to Mrs Hayes

The President left the office chambers about noon, and indulged in a general hand shaking with visitors in the anterooms

Sherman's Nomination Confirmed—No Action on any other name

Immediately after the Senate went into Executive session at 1 o'clock this afternoon a motion was made to take from the table and bring before the Senate for action the nomination of Mr. Sherman as Secretary of the Treasury

Objection being interposed on the ground that the nomination had been ordered referred to the Finance Committee when appointed and that it could not now be acted upon without unanimous consent, the Vice President decided that the rules applicable to reference to committees etc were not in force as no committees were in existence After considerable discussion concerning the point of order the decision of the Vice President was sustained without division

The question was then taken on the confirmation of Sherman's nomination and it was confirmed by a solid vote of the Republican Senators against 26 votes in the negative by Democratic members. Several Democratic Senators refrained from voting No attempts were made to confirm any of the other Cabinet nominations

Schurz at the White House.

Mr. Schurz was at the Executive Mansion early this evening and was in consultation with the President some time. The visit was more of a social than official character. The assurance is given late to-night that the President has no idea whatever of making any change in the list of nominations sent to the Senate yesterday.

The Ex-President.

Ex-President Grant was at the Capitol to-day and had a conference with Mr Anthony and other Senators

Army and Navy Receptions.

President Hayes to-night officially received the officers of the Army and Navy and Marine Corps The event was one of the most brilliant that ever animated the spacious parlors of the Executive Mansion

FORTY-FIFTH CONGRESS. Special Session. Senate.

WASHINGTON March 8

Mr Edmunds was appointed a Director on the part of the Senate of the Columbia Institute for the deaf and dumb under the act of July 27th 1868

The Senate resumed the consideration of the unfinished business being the resolution of Mr Bayard that the credentials of John P Morgan Senator-elect from the State of Ala be taken from the table and that he be sworn

Spencer moved to amend the resolution so as to refer the credentials of Morgan to the Committee on Privileges and Elections and supported the motion by a speech

Mr Morton on the Alabama Election

Mr Morton said he would vote to refer the credentials of Morgan because he was entitled to be sworn in on his credentials if he believed he had a prima facie case equal to that of Pinchback or Kellogg not a bit better He could not let this occasion pass without calling attention to the report submitted on Thursday last by the sub-committee of the Committee on Privileges and Elections submitted to the Senate a few days ago by the Senator from Wisconsin Cameron) showing the election in Alabama in August last was fraudulent

He argued that if the election in Alabama had been fair there would have been a Republican majority in the State. Both Houses of the Legislature would have been Republican and the result would have been quite different Thousands of Republicans in the State were prevented from voting and the Republican party lost at least 10 000 votes on account of the Democrat refusing to open the polls in some of the precincts Some 15 000 to 30 000 votes given for the Republicans had been counted for the Democrats While he called attention to the frauds in Alabama he would not stultify his own record by voting to seat the credentials Had either Morgan or Wallace should be made to take the conferments He thought it in the public interest to support Hayes' policy and all Democratic friends to do right cheerfully

Mr Blaine gives Facts of Interest concerning Key, the President's Choice for Postmaster General

Mr Blaine explained his remarks of yesterday in regard to the Senator from Delaware stating that a majority of the Judges and all but the record showed how incorrect in the same connection he referred to the remarks of Mr Key while in the Senate nominated yesterday for Postmaster General in regard to the case of the Oregon Electors to the effect that he (Key) regarded the action of the Governor of Oregon as wrong but it was not more reprehensible than the action of the returning boards in Louisiana and Florida

Resuming his remarks Mr Blaine said Mr Key the two Democrats that he supported and Hendricks and he (Blaine) believed to have been elected by the people of Oregon

Mr Morgan Sworn In

The amendment of Mr Spencer to refer the credentials of Morgan to the Committee on Privileges and Elections was then lost by a party vote

Mr Wallace's motion to swear in Morgan was then agreed to without a division

The original resolution that Morgan be sworn was then unanimously agreed to without division He was escorted to the desk of the Presiding Officer by Mr Gordon and the oath administered by Vice President Wheeler

The Credentials of Grover Presented

Mr Sargent moved the Senate proceed to the consideration of the report of Mr Wallace he will leave the motion until Mr Wallace moved that the credentials of J P Grover Senator from Oregon be taken from the table and that he be sworn

Mr Sargent submitted the following as a substitute

Whereas under the Constitution and laws and practice of the Senate, Hayes to Grover claiming to be the Senator from Oregon on his credentials being regular and in due form and there being no contestant for the seat is entitled to admission to a seat in the body on the prima facie case presented by such credentials pending the consideration of the petition of the citizens of the State of Oregon against his admission thereto

Resolved That the credentials of Hayes to Grover be laid upon the table and that the Chief Clerk be now instructed to withdraw the papers from the files of the Senate and report the same to the Senate for action forthwith Mr Wallace accepted the motion Mr Conkling moved to amend by inserting in the preamble after the words no contestant for the said following and there being no contestant before the body claiming to be the Legislature or any person claiming to be Governor and there being a doubt or disputes as to the existence of and legal rights of State government" The amendment was accepted by Mr Sargent

Mr Conkling on Louisiana

Mr Conkling said there was no analogy between the case of Grover and that of Kellogg the former being from a State where there was no question of Legislature the facts tending upon a prima facie case The essential question here was in regard to Louisiana was there the regular Legislature there and who for the time was the lawful Governor and that question the Senate would be called upon to decide Whether a lawful Legislature existed in the State or not he did not sit and listen to the certificate of Kellogg but stood before it in the first of it

He argued that the case should wait until the testimony taken as to the governorship and legislature should come to the printer Could be that the Chief Magistrate who uttered these words does not design with a conscientious aim at the right to find out, to ascertain to declare who in truth on the 7th day of November last was chosen Governor of the State of Louisiana, who in truth of these contestants in the various legislative districts were entitled to sit and constitute the Legislature Elsewhere was further participated in by Messrs Morton Sargent, Bayard McMillan Saulsbury Howe and White

Frank Dexter Endorsing Matthews' Letter to Chamberlain.

Mr Blaine sent to the clerk's desk and had read the following letter

WASHINGTON, March 8th, 1877

Hon J G Blaine—

Dear Sir—Hon William M Evarts begs me to say to you that he did not endorse the letter of Stanley Matthews to Governor Chamberlain to the extent implied by the telegrams of Governor Chamberlain to us, that the letter was presented to him by Mr Hassell of South Carolina and he wrote upon it substantially as follows That he had read the foregoing letter, that he desired to see the troubles in South Carolina composed and he desired to hear from Gov Chamberlain upon the subject."

Very respectfully,
D. T CORBIN

A Despatch from Gov Packard of New Orleans

Also the following telegram received by him to-day

NEW ORLEANS, March 8

Hon J G Blaine, U S Senate—

Senator Bayard is mistaken. In every parish outside of the city except five hundred dozen parishes in one of which our Tax Collector has just been murdered, my government is recognized by all save a few pretended Nicholls officials.

(Signed) S. B. PACKARD

Mr. Thurman asked if the Senator from Maine would not give the Senate the Stanley Matthews letter in regard to South Carolina

Mr. Blaine said he would be glad to do so if he had it, but it was now in Democratic hands It was procured by Haskell, who is chairman of the Democratic Committee in South Carolina. He understood that a similar letter had been sent to New Orleans.

Mr. Sargent's first resolution and preamble were adopted and the others withdrawn—

Grover was sworn in. The Senate went into executive session and at 6 o'clock adjourned.

HELIOTROPE.

BY THE LOS ANGELES POET.

White flowers are few; sun lightly raise
From rough dull leaves your oval sprays,
Yet in shades of lonely color steep
Hints, tender blues and purples deep

Your lonesome blooms, though frail of form,
Hide fervors tropically warm,
But well you keep in calm control
The fragrant secrets of your soul

When wooed by sunny winds and rains,
You deign for these but soft replies;
Yet rapture stirs in quiet of others who
The appeals of darkness and of dew!

A lover fears take noiseless flight
Before the sneaky kiss of night,
As I all yet love, in deep content,
Is given with sweet abandonment!

At fifteen down shadowed garden walks
Your keen, voluptuous perfume stirs
Me, young as ghost should roam unseen,
That once was some luxurious queen.

She that in Egypt with her smile,
The tawny silver of the Nile,
Or else in Ind, bathed in vanished hours,
The awful Babylonian lovers!

ST. NICHOLAS.

The King of all publications issued for the nursery and other side of the Atlantic.—Saint Louis Republican Observer.

The third volume of this incomparable Magazine is now ready. With its eight full page illustrations, its fifty or more pictures, its splendid serials, its wonder stories, its fascinating little sketches, its articles in useful knowledge, its spirited poetry, and its unrivalled variety of entertaining matter, it is the most delightful of all the Children's Magazines.—Boston Transcript.

ST. NICHOLAS for 1877.

With the month of November, 1876, began a new volume of ST. NICHOLAS, and it is entertaining success from the first. "The Hanging of the Greenes," a story of eight by Louisa M. Alcott, began the November serial, of absorbing interest to boys.

"HIS OWN MASTER," a story by Brownlow, author of "Old Lavender Stories," begins in the Christmas Holiday number.

Besides several stories, Christmas verses, lively sketches, poems, and pictures for the little ones, the November and December numbers contain, with drawings by thirteen artists, the interesting Holiday Number of ST. NICHOLAS, especially illustrated, in addition to the usual engravings,

"THE BOYS OF MY BOOK CLUB," by William Cullen Bryant.

"The Horse Hotel," a lively article, by Clarence Cook, describing the curious and interesting horse hotels in Paris, especially the one at the Jardin d'Acclimatation, illustrated by Richard A. Proctor, "A Christmas Day for Hunter Cousins," by the Eggleston, the Peterkin and Carroll of Winter's Holiday Stories," by Mary Lowell Putnam, with pictures.

Do Not Fail to Buy of NICHOLAS for the Christmas Holidays. PRICE 25 cents.

During the year there will be interesting papers for young folks by Wilkie Collins, Rebecca Harding Davis, Thomas Hughes, William Howitt, Dr. Holland, George MacDonald, Sanford B. Hunt, Frank R. Stockton, and others.

There will be stories, sketches, and poems, of special interest to girls, by Harriet Prescott Spofford, Susan Coolidge, Sarah Winter Kellogg, Lucretia Stuart Peirce, Lucy Ames, Mrs. Hugh Hastings, Celia Thaxter, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others. There will be also with maps, showing "The Share of Each Month" which will be likely to surpass in interest any series on popular science recently given to the public.

"JEWELS AND PEARLS," by Professor Proctor, for young readers,

AMUSEMENT AND INSTRUCTION, with FUN AND FROLIC, and WIT AND WISDOM, will be mingled as heretofore, and ST. NICHOLAS will continue to delight the young and give pleasure to the old.

THE LONDON LITERARY WORLD says:

"There is no magazine for the young that can be said to equal the choice production of SCRIBNER'S press. . . . All the articles, whether in prose or verse, are throbbing with vitality. . . . The literature and artistic illustrations are both superb."

The London Daily News says: "We wish we could point out its equal in our own periodical literature."

GOOD NEWS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

To meet the demand for a cheaper ST. NICHOLAS Gift Book, the price of vols. I and II has been reduced to $3 each. The three volumes, each elegant library case, are sold for $10 (in full gilt, $15) so that all may give their children a complete set. These volumes contain more attractive material than fifty dollars' worth of the ordinary children's books.

Subscription price, $3 a year. The three bound volumes and a subscription for the year, only $13. Subscribe with the nearest newsdealer, or send money in check, or P. O. money order, or in registered letter, to
